

#9

Hello fellow sovereigns:

I have had these small signs taped to the inside of my car windows for many years. I have been pulled over for various minor infractions on four occasions that I recall.

In my (former) wife's car without the signage, I had one (1) alleged violation and I got a ticket.

In my car, with the signage, I had three (3) alleged violations and received no tickets. In each of the three cases, the Police Administrators ran a check on the Driver License I handed them, then came back to my car and asked me to please refrain from doing whatever I had been pulled over for, i.e., no turn signal, changing lanes, speeding, etc., etc. Then each one of them said, "Have a nice day" and handed the Driver License back to me.

The Police Administrators know what "Private Property" means. They know what "Private Use" means. They know what "No Trespass" means. They know what "Non-Commercial" means. They know what "Non-Resident" means.

Tow truck drivers know what "No Consent for Towing" means, and they are very unlikely to risk towing your car.

My goal as a sovereign is to just have the Administrators, a.k.a., fake officials, leave me alone. This is (or should be) your goal also, to simply avoid having another fight to deal with. I have enough things to deal with without fighting with a Corporation Court Administrator who is trying to take $150.00 worth of credit out of my pocket.

I highly recommend you attach these small signs to the inside of your windows with clear tape.

Never forget Rule #1: "You should never use anything that you don't understand and agree with. If you can't explain it to someone else, don't use it until you can!!"

Also remember: Always keep God as your primary tool for winning your battles. He is omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent. He is all-powerful, all-seeing and all-knowing. He sees the future and knows the outcome of your battle. You may not win, but be assured that He has a better plan than you could ever think of, and you just don't know it yet.

P. S. - The first sign (below) also works well on your home windows and storm doors. I once had a Police Administrator come onto my yard to talk with me. I asked him, "Do you see that sign in the window", to which he said, "Yes". I said, "This is private property, and I'm asking you to leave". He said very politely, "O.K.", and climbed back into his cruiser and left. They know what "Private Property" means.

Below is the basic signage for: (a) top of driver side window & (b) top of front passenger side window:

PRIVATE PROPERTY
KEEP OUT!

TRESPASSERS
PROSECUTED

Dillon V Plenty 1991

Unless by prior arrangement